CONCORDIA STUDENT IN OLYMPIC TRIALS

Concordia University student, Neville Ceolin is among a group of Canadian bobsled athletes who recently departed on a three month European training and competition program. The athletes left Montreal on November 6th for Frankfurt, and a month long training session in preparation for the Sarajevo Cup to be held December 2nd to 11th in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, site of the upcoming Winter Olympics. Other competitions, prior to the Olympic team selections, include the Nation's Cup in Koenigsee and the World Cup in Yugoslavia. The Canadian 2-man and 4-man bobsled teams will be selected from the three teams currently in the European program.

Ceolin has been weight-training at Concordia University with fellow Montrealer, Robert Wilson. Wilson competed in the 1980 Olympics at Lake Placid in both the 2-man and the 4-man events. Ceolin is a newcomer in the program and will be teamed with Wilson in Europe, as part of a 4-man team.

Both Ceolin and Wilson have been training under the guidance of Concordia student, Ed Enos III. Enos has developed a free weight program for the bobsled team to follow while in Europe. Ed previously worked as an assistant to the strength training coach of the N.F.L. New England Patriots.
